

Spring Training Camps 2008

I just want to remind all of you of the upcoming Disaster Response Training Camp. We will be hosting 2 of the same events. The first will be a week from Saturday on the 29th and held at Calvary Chapel of Sarasota.

This training camp is for anyone with any interest or level of involvement in Disaster Response/Relief Work.

No matter what the level of your church, ministry or yourself, from none to responding to disaster for years, you will benefit, as well as us, from attending this camp.

Many people from different relief organizations from around the country will be attending and teaching at the camp.

You will walk away with knowledge in several different areas and will get resources to help take your ministry to the next level.

And most importantly you will be able to network with others in our area with the same type of calling. It will be nice to know who else around us is already involved in relief ministries that we can network with in the future should a disaster hit our area.
